REPORT ON THE STATISTICS OF COUNTY FINANCES.

MR. WILLIAM D. T. TREFRY, Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation, State House, Boston.

SIR:— I submit herewith a report on the work of the Division of Accounts, which was formerly under the direction of the Controller of County Accounts.

The books and accounts of the several county officials, which, under the law, have to be audited, have been examined, and statements concerning such examinations have been filed in the Division of Accounts.

The enactment of chapters 260 of the General Acts of 1918, and 112 and 276 of the General Acts of 1919 added materially to the work of the examiners.

Many conferences were held with the county officials relative to the salaries of employees affected by this legislation. Opinions were obtained covering some of the vital questions, copies of which are included in this report.

Chapter 112, which was approved on April 18, 1919, increased the pay of grand and traverse jurors. In some cases, this statute was construed as taking effect thirty days after its passage, notwithstanding that the constitution provides that an act shall not take effect until ninety days after its passage, unless the act shall be deemed to be an emergency measure. With the exception of Essex and Hampshire counties, all excess payments made under the new law were returned to the treasury. In Essex County these payments aggregated $1,110.88, and in Hampshire County they amounted to $375.16. At the close of the year 1919 these amounts had not been repaid.

The opinion of the Attorney-General, which is found on page 7, is to the effect that chapter 112 was subject to "The Referendum," and, consequently, was not effective until ninety days after its approval by the Governor, which was on April 18, 1919.

The use of the cash books devised for keeping the accounts of tuberculosis hospitals has proved generally satisfactory, and it is now possible to obtain complete data relative to the charges for care of patients and the cost of maintenance of these institutions.

At the present time, tuberculosis hospitals have been established under special acts in Barnstable and Hampshire counties, and under chapter 286 of the General Acts of 1916 these hospitals were established in the counties of Bristol, Norfolk, and Plymouth. The construction of the tuberculosis hospital in Essex County was held up by war conditions and it is not yet in operation.

Berkshire, Franklin, and Hampden counties have arranged for the care of their patients by Hampshire County under contracts which appear to be mutually beneficial to these counties.

The returns, as shown in the tabulations appended, are complete, excepting those of a probation officer in the town of Adams and of a trial justice in Nahant. These returns should be made not later than January 15, but on that date there were a number of delinquents.

The amount of work necessary for the preparation of the report makes it imperative that the schedules should be filed promptly, so that the report may be completed before the first day of February.

Opinions of the Attorney-General that are of great interest to the county officials follow: —

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
BOSTON, July 28, 1919.

MR. FRANK L. DEAN, Controller of County Accounts.

DEAR SIR: — You have requested my opinion as to when chapter 112 of the General Acts of 1919, increasing and establishing the rate of compensation and mileage to be paid traverse and grand jurors, becomes effective. This act applies to all jurors in attendance upon any court within the Commonwealth.

The initiative and referendum amendment to the Constitution, in the first article under the heading "The Referendum," contains the following provision: —

I. When Statutes shall take Effect.

No law passed by the General Court shall take effect earlier than ninety days after it has become a law, excepting laws declared to be emergency laws and laws which may not be made the subject of a referendum petition, as herein provided.

The statute under consideration is not declared to be an emergency measure, and therefore it cannot take effect earlier than ninety days after it has become a law, unless it is a statute which may not be the subject of a referendum petition.

Article III of this division of the amendment under consideration is, in part, as follows: —

III. Referendum Petitions.

SECTION 1. Contents. — A referendum petition may ask for a referendum to the people upon any law enacted by the General Court which is not herein expressly excluded.

SECTION 2. Excluded Matters. — No law that relates to religion, religious practices or religious institutions; or to the appointment, qualification, tenure, removal or compensation of judges; or to the powers, creation or abolition of courts, or the operation of which is restricted to a particular town, city or other political division or to particular districts or localities of the Commonwealth, or that appropriates money for the current or ordinary expenses of the Commonwealth or for any of its departments, boards, commissions or institutions shall be the subject of a referendum petition.

The only item of excluded matters within which it has been suggested this statute may come is that of laws "the operation of which is restricted to a particular town, city or other political subdivision or to particular districts or localities of the Commonwealth." The suggestion is made that as the General Court might have dealt with the matter of jurors' compensation by statutes applicable only in one or more counties and not throughout the Commonwealth, and thus by a series of statutes covering the several counties of the Commonwealth in succession, this statute must be regarded as the equivalent of such a series of statutes, and as coming within the matters excluded from the referendum by the clause under consideration.

By precisely the same reasoning, any statute dealing with a subject of legislation which it is within the power of the General Court to make applicable to less than the entire Commonwealth could be similarly regarded as the equivalent of several statutes applicable to districts or divisions of the Commonwealth. The real question, therefore, is whether the referendum is by the terms of the amendment limited to matters which are of such a character that they cannot constitutionally be restricted in their application to "a particular town, city or other political subdivision or to particular districts or localities of the Commonwealth." The same language as that above quoted is used in defining the matters excluded from the operation of the initiative (The Initiative, Art. II, § 2). So this suggestion also raises the question whether only those matters may be made the subject of the popular initiative as are required by the Constitution to be made applicable throughout the Commonwealth.

The history of the adoption of the initiative and referendum amendment is too recent to require stating. It was the result of a popular desire of considerable strength to provide the people with a more effective means of controlling the exercise of legislative power. Its opening article, defining the scope of the amendment, is as follows: —

I. Definition.

Legislative power shall continue to be vested in the General Court; but the people reserve to themselves the popular initiative, which is the power of a specified number of voters to submit constitutional amendments and laws to the people for approval or rejection; and the popular referendum, which is the power of a specified number of voters to submit laws, enacted by the General Court, to the people for their ratification or rejection.

Both expressly and by implication it is indicated throughout the amendment that both the initiative and the referendum shall be applicable to all exercises of legislative power except those dealing with matters excluded from their operation. The various exclusions are based upon different grounds of policy. That under consideration seems plainly to be founded on a desire not to burden the people of the whole Commonwealth with the duty of passing upon matters of only local or limited application in which they are not, as a whole, interested; but unless a matter is excluded on other grounds, it is the obvious purpose of the amendment to enable the people directly to consider, enact, approve or reject all matters of legislation which affect the people of the Commonwealth as a whole. Thus, there are many matters which are ordinarily dealt with by general legislation applicable throughout the Commonwealth which conceivably might in a proper case be restricted to particular localities or districts. It cannot be said that all such matters are excluded from the initiative and referendum merely because the General Court might have dealt with them locally. It must be said that if it chooses to treat a matter as one of general application, and to deal with it as such by a general statute applicable to all the people of the Commonwealth who come within its scope, it is not excluded from the initiative and referendum. Such a statute is in fact made applicable to the entire Commonwealth, and therefore cannot be said to be a law "the operation of which is restricted to a particular town, city or other political subdivision or to particular districts or localities of the Commonwealth." To construe the amendment otherwise would be to overlook its real character of a far-reaching reservation of power to the people, and thereby to thwart by a narrow construction the will of the people as expressed therein.

Accordingly, in my opinion, the statute to which you refer does not deal with a matter expressly excluded from the operation of the referendum by the provisions of the Constitution, and therefore, in my judgment, it cannot take effect earlier than ninety days after it became a law by approval by the Governor on April 18, 1919.

Very truly yours,

HENRY C. ATTWILL,
Attorney-General.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
BOSTON, Oct. 9, 1919.

MR. JOSEPH W. WHARTON, Controller of County Accounts.

DEAR SIR: — You have requested my opinion as to the construction of statutes relating to the salary of the first assistant clerk of courts for the county of Plymouth.

Gen. St. 1918, c. 287, § 1, establishes the salaries of clerks and assistant clerks, and in reference to the latter, with certain exceptions, provides that the salary of the first assistant clerk shall be 55 per cent of the salary of the clerk of the county, but not less in counties of the first six classes than $2,500. After the words "to wit" comes a list of counties and the salaries for the first assistant clerks. In the case of the county of Plymouth the salary is calculated at $1,925, although Plymouth County is enumerated in the earlier part of the section in the first six classes, namely, in Class F. This makes an inconsistency in the language of the act.

Chapter 57 of the Resolves of 1919 directs Plymouth County to pay to the first assistant clerk of courts for 1918 the sum of $575 "by way of rectifying an error in chapter two hundred and eighty-seven of the General Acts of said year, whereby the incumbent of the said office was deprived of an intended increase in salary." Of course, this resolve does not amend the general statute of the preceding year, but is merely temporary and self-executing. From the language of the resolve it is not certain whether the Legislature of 1919 felt that the assistant clerk in question was deprived of an increase in salary because it considered that the Legislature of 1918 had failed to provide the increase by statute or whether the clerk had been deprived of his increase, legally given, by a wrong interpretation of the 1918 act by the county of Plymouth.

Although the 1919 resolve may be construed to indicate a legislative doubt as to a construction giving the assistant clerk $2,500, this doubt is not so clearly expressed as to be at all controlling; and, believing that the resolve does not in any way change the proper construction of Gen. St. 1918, c. 287, it is my opinion that the present incumbent, assuming he is the same man who held the office at the time of the passage of the 1918 act, is entitled to a salary of $2,500, because I consider that the list of counties and salaries of the assistant clerks following the words "to wit" is merely an incorrect mathematical determination of the salaries as established by the paragraph preceding the words "to wit" and, as a matter of law, does not form an integral part of the statute.

It is, therefore, my further opinion that, under Gen. St. 1919, c. 356, § 7, the salary of the present incumbent shall not be reduced below $2,500.

Very truly yours,

HENRY A. WYMAN,
Attorney-General.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
BOSTON, NOV. 22, 1919.

MR. JOSEPH W. WHARTON, Controller of County Accounts.

DEAR SIR:— You have requested my opinion upon three questions which have arisen relative to the provisions of chapter 361 of the General Acts of 1919.

Your first question is based upon the following set of facts: the register of deeds for the southern district of Middlesex County received a salary as register of deeds and compensation as assistant recorder of the land court of $7,054.92. Chapter 361 of the General Acts of 1919 provides for a readjustment of the above salary beginning June 1, 1919. Under this readjustment the register would receive $7,344.72. Section 1 provides, in part, that "the salary of a register of deeds or assistant recorder of the land court shall in no event exceed the maximum of six thousand five hundred dollars." Section 6 provides that "the provisions of this act shall not be construed to reduce the salary of any present incumbent."

Your first question is what salary the register shall receive beginning June 1, 1919.

The act is to be construed as a whole, and while it seeks to adjust and readjust the salaries of registers of deeds and assistant recorders of the land court, it is clear that by the insertion of the proviso of section 6 it was intended by the Legislature that the salaries of the present incumbents should in no way be disturbed. This proviso section controls, and the salary of the register in question cannot be reduced, but is to remain at $7,054.92.

Your second question is whether or not, in the event of the register receiving the larger sum, namely, $7,054.92, the assistant register should receive 55 per cent of that sum, as provided in section 2, or 55 per cent of $6,500.

Section 2 reads as follows:—

The salaries of assistant registers of deeds shall in each instance be equal to fifty-five per cent of the salary of the register of deeds in their respective districts, as adjusted or readjusted under the provisions of this act.

It is clear that the Legislature intended that the assistant register should receive 55 per cent of the amount adjusted or readjusted under the act, namely, $6,500 in this case, and not the arbitrary amount received by the present incumbent under the provisions of section 6, or $7,054.92. Also note that section 6 applies to assistant registers.

Your third question is as follows: Section 1 provides that the register of deeds and assistant recorder shall receive one salary for both offices. Section 4 provides that "the annual salaries of the registers of deeds for the counties of Dukes County and Nantucket shall be nine hundred dollars each, and the annual salary of the register of deeds for the southern district of Berkshire county shall be one thousand dollars." On these facts you ask whether these three registers shall continue to receive an annual salary as assistant recorders of the land court, under section 3 of chapter 260 of the General Acts of 1918, in addition to the amount stated above.

Reading the bald language of section 4, one might be led to the conclusion that the three registers in question were to receive, in addition to the sums set forth as salaries, the compensation as assistant recorders of the land court. Upon investigation, however, I find the following situation: under the provisions of section 1, in districts where the population is under 75,000, the basic salary provided was $2,200. In the progress of chapter 361 through the Legislature the statute had reached the Senate when it was discovered that $2,200 for the three registers in question would be an unwarranted increase over the salary they had received in the past and were receiving at that time. For example, the register of deeds for the southern district of Berkshire was receiving a salary as register of deeds plus his compensation as assistant recorder of the land court of $706.05; the register of deeds of Dukes County was receiving as salary and compensation, $600, and the register of deeds of Nantucket was receiving as salary and compensation, $874. This situation being brought to light, the bill was amended by the addition of section 4, taking these three districts out of the general provisions of section 1 and giving these three particular officers the flat arbitrary sum set forth, which amounted to a substantial increase over what they had been and were receiving from both sources. Accordingly, it is my opinion that it was the intention of the Legislature that the sum of $900 in the cases of the counties of Dukes County and Nantucket and of $1,000 in the case of the southern district of Berkshire County should cover the salary as register of deeds and compensation as assistant recorder of the land court. Therefore, my answer to your third inquiry is in the negative.

Yours very truly,

HENRY A. WYMAN,
Attorney-General.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL,
BOSTON, Jan. 8, 1920.

MR. THEODORE N. WADDELL, Director of Accounts.

DEAR SIR: — I am in receipt of your letter of Jan. 2, 1920, asking for an opinion concerning chapter 361 of the General Acts of 1919. This act is one to establish the salaries of the registers of deeds, the assistant recorders of the land court and the assistant registers of deeds.

In determining the salaries to be paid, a basic salary is provided by section 1 which further provides a certain additional amount based on the income of the registry "from all sources for the five years next preceding the date when the salary, adjusted or readjusted under the provisions of this act takes effect."

As the date when the salaries were adjusted first takes effect is June 1, 1919, the question arises whether the words "the five years next preceding" means to include the period between June 1, 1914, and June 1, 1919, or Jan. 1, 1914, and Jan. 1, 1919.

It is my opinion that calendar years are meant and the figures must be based upon the income between Jan. 1, 1914, and Jan. 1, 1919. While the other construction has some points in its favor the statute does not clearly indicate that the period is from June 1, 1914, to June 1, 1919. By reason of that not having been made plain, the statutory definition of the word year must apply, which is "a calendar year unless otherwise expressed" (R. L., c. 8, § 5).

Under Gen. St. 1919, c. 241, salaries of county treasurers are established, and here the receipts during the five calendar years preceding the date of the adjustment are taken into account in fixing the salaries. It is also to be observed that, in the act under consideration, in the future all salaries will be based upon the income during the five calendar years preceding the year of adjustment. There is nothing in the statute to indicate that the Legislature had any different plan in mind when using the words "for the five years next preceding."

Very truly yours,

HENRY A. WYMAN,
Attorney-General.

During the year 1919 certain changes were made in the officials in charge of this work. On August 1 Mr. Frank L. Dean, Controller of County Accounts, resigned, after having directed this work for a number of years. During his term of service many progressive ideas were put into actual operation.

His successor was Mr. Joseph W. Wharton, who directed the work until it was transferred to the Department of Corporations and Taxation.

In conclusion I wish to express my appreciation of the efficient manner in which Mr. William H. Wing, Mr. Irving Taylor, Mr. James C. Emerson and Mr. Herbert E. Fairfield, examiners of county accounts, have performed their respective duties, and I desire to thank them for their hearty co-operation and assistance.

Respectfully submitted,

THEODORE N. WADDELL,
